Dutchland Plastics Doubly Awarded at Annual ARM Meeting

Oostburg, WI (November 4, 2009) – On September 26, four members of the Dutchland sales team traveled to Minneapolis for the ARM (Association of Rotational Molders) show, each with a suitcase in hand. They returned to Oostburg on September 29 with their suitcases, exciting ideas presented at the Meeting and two prestigious awards.

The Annual Meeting started off with a day packed with workshops for all attendees. Eric Brill and Lindee Salazar conducted a workshop on customer service, in which they shared the importance of detail of all levels of the customer service cycle at Dutchland Plastics. Other workshops included discussions about quality, new machinery, technology, etc.

The 1st award given to Dutchland was the 2nd consecutive term as President of ARM for Dutchland Sales Director/Co-Owner, Daven J. Claerbout.

The 2nd award was the PVC Project of the Year Award. The name of the project: Surgical Sally. “Sally” is a PVC-plastic, female simulator ideal for teaching wound management skills, dressing changes and bandaging techniques.

Upon returning to the office on September 30, the sales team had the opportunity to thank those who really earned the awards – the Dutchland Plastics’ employees. Their strive for excellence is the reason every year Dutchland representatives at the ARM convention always return with more than just suitcases.

Dutchland Plastics is a leading custom manufacturer of rotational and blow molded plastic products in Oostburg, WI. Founded in 1967, today Dutchland Plastics provides product and services around the world. Dutchland Plastics is a private, family-owned business that is in its second generation of ownership.
